Oftend, March 12. Sir Joseph Yorke is daily expected here, on his way to Vienna, whether he is going in quality of Ambuffidor Plenipotentiary.

March 13. We are well informed that a Congress Hague, March 13. We are well informed that a Congress ill foon be held at Vienna, in order to bring about a general pacification between the belligerent powers, wherein North-A-merica will not be comprised. We are further assured, by the Lift letters from London, that Sir Joseph Yorke was preparing to set out for Vienna, in quality of Ambassador from the Court Hugus, March 15. From the answers of the Northern Courts in respect to the faccours demanded by this Republic, it does not appear that we have any great reason to expect much affiltance from either of them.

LONDON.

This day his Majesty went to the house of Peers and gave the Royal affent to the annuity bill, the bill for adding nan es as commissioners to the land-tax act, the militia pay bill, and to feveral other public and private bills.

This morning some dispatches were received from Lisbon, which bring an account of a Spanish fleet, confisting of about 26 fail, passing by that place the 6th inst. and it is imagined they are gone for Gibraltar.

Certain advices have been received at the Admiralty-office of a fleet from Cadiz, confifting of 32 thips of the line, being at fee; the fame advices fay, they put to fea very indifferently appointed, and, from every circumstance and appearance, raer from a motive of parade, than view of martial exploit.

Notwithstanding the farious reports to the contrary, the French fleet had not failed from Brest the 12th instant; nor was there the smallest appearance of their putting to sea at that period.

We hear the East-India fleet will accompany Commodore Johnstone's squadron as far as Brazil; he will then proceed for La Plata, which is bounded by Amazonia on the north, by Brazil east, by Patagonia on the fouth, and by Peru and Chili well, in forder to attack Buenos Ayres, the chief town, which is fitnated on the fouth fide of the river Plata, which is feven leagues broad at this city. This is one of the most confiderable, port towns in South America; it being the market place for the merchandize of Europe and Peru; - and from this place, great part of the treasure of Chili and Peru is ex-

Except the Cape of Good Hope the Dutch have no fettle-ments on the continent of Africa, or the coalts thereof, that can require a force for their reduction any thing equal to what Commodore Johnston has with him. The Dutch have facto-ries on different parts of the coast, but they are far from being

The French are at this time in fuch diffress at Breft, for want of naval stores, that there are no less than seven capital ships building there, and more than that number preparing for the fea, which are all at a stop for want of stores.

A gentleman who arrived in town last night from France afferts, that the French fleet was in Brest harbour on Friday last, and in no readiness to fail.

The islands of Jersey and Guernsey were reinforced last wesk with 3000 troops, belides artificers and engineers.

The troops are in motion all over the kingdom, and marching to the fea ports and garrifons along the coalts, to prevent a furnifie, should the French attempt the threatened scheme of invation.

In a few days the grounds will be marked out for the encampments of the feveral regiments, who are to take the field earlier this fummer than usual.

The American army is in a deplorable state; they can no longer get fupplies from either French or Dutch, and Clinton and Arbuthnot have offered to receive them with open arms; is would be nothing new in history to see them returning to the mother country with impatience to be received, and making a merit of having relinquished an unnatural alliance. In such an event, France would be as glad as we to cultivate the Olive.

The King has written a letter to Sir George Rodney with his own hand, applauding his whole fystem of conduct since he failed from Portsmouth, on his country's service.

Admiral Milbanke's squadron of observation at Plymouth will, in the course of a fortnight, amount to 17 fail of the line, all well manned.

A letter from Dunkirk (received yesterday) fays, " There is a fresh report that Admiral Rodney has taken possession of the island of Curacoa, with an immense quantity of goods, stores, &c."

The last private dispatches received from France mention, that the present Minister of the Marine has drawn, in a few weeks he has been in office, upwards of 2,800,000 crowns from the treasury coffers upon a navy account, which has near emptied them. The Minister is very pressing for the new loan.

Private letters from Paris mention, "that Dr Franklyn appeared at Court upon the 13th inft. when M. Maurepas delivered the King's fentiments to the Rushan Ambassador respecting the proposals for a general peace."

It does not feem to be doubted that the proffered mediation of the Courts of Vienna and Petersburgh to the belligerent powers, has been already accepted by England, Spain, and Holland; but the engagements of France with the American Congress Len to retard the progress to a general pacification.

They who are acquainted with the great abilities of Dr Franklin, his emnity against this country, and the influence he has had in the Councils of Verfailles for fome years, will rea-dily call their eyes to that quarter to fee what fteps will be raken by a political novice, the minion of Sam. Adams and the Lees of Virginia, who has been fent to the French Court to fuperfede the man, whom, of all the human race, this country had the greatest reason to dread. If the steady temperate assiduity of Dr Franklin could not obtain any effential support from the French Court when its dwn interest was less pressing, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the ardent zeal of a younger Plenipotentiary will but be able to procure that affiliance the Congress has so anxiously solicited, now that the necessities of the French islands are become so great by their sufferings from the harricane, and being out of from the resources hitherto afforded them from St. Eustatias

On Wednesday the Committee of the Protestant Association gave a dinner at the London Tavern to the Right Ho-nourable Lord George Gordon, their President, the Duke of Gordon, and the rest of his Lordship's family and friends, together with the Jury, Counfel, and Solicitors. The company on this occasion consisted of about three hundred of the most respectable friends to the Protestant interest; among whom were several Noblemen. Members of Parliament, Officers of distinction, Clergymen, and Ministers of different denomina-tions. After diamer the following toasts were given:

The King.—The Queen.—The Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family .- The Right Honourable Lord George Gordon, President of the Protestant Associations.

(His Lordship then rose and thanked them for the honour they did him, and proposed for the next toast).

Success to the Protestant interest. - To the memory of the 6th of February, 1781.—Prosperity to the City of London—Success to his Majetty's arms, by sea and land.—The Duke of Gordon and his family.—The Protestant Associations in the three kingdoms.—The virtuous Jury that fat on the 5th and 6th of February, 1781.—The Counfel and Solicitors employed on the trial.—The Rev. Erafinus Middleton, and the reft of his Lordship's wireester.—The Noblemen and Gentlemen who marked their friendship to Lord George Gordon under his Lordship's profecution and trial.—Sir George Rodney and General Vaughan .- To the memory of the glorious King William .- Thanks to the Noblemen and Gentlemen for the honour they have done to the invitation of the Committee.

The greatest figns of joy appeared in every face upon meeting again their noble President after his long imprisonment and deliverance. The whole entertainment exhibited a scene of the utmost cordiality and felicity; and the joy of the evening concluded with an Ode, composed for the occasion, and set to the music of, God fare the King.

Extrast of a letter from Paris, March 14. " M. Maurepas has given the Russian Minister to understand, that no emissary, on the part of France will be sent to meet others of different mediating and belligerent powers at Vienna, respecting the opening a treaty for peace."

Extra0 of a tester from Hithe, March 20.

This day was fent in here a French privateer mounting 28 guns, and 150 men, taken by a frigate belonging to the grand She was drove in here by contrary winds, but, as the wind is coming about the is preparing to fail for Portsmouth. She is a new ship bulk upon a new construction, and seems to be a fine failing veffel."

Extract of a letter from Portfinouth, March 21.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Wednefday, March 21. Agreed to the amendments made by the Lords to several bills sent on the Commons.

Mr Hopkins acquainted the House, that he had a petition to present

Arms, and moved for leave to bring it up.

The petition being brought up and read, Mr Hopkins moved, that the Sheriffs be brought up and read, Mr Hopkins moved, that the Sheriffs be brought to the bar on the morrow to be discharged. On this a division took place, when there appeared against the motion, 69; for it, 58—Majority 11.

A petition was then presented by Sir Gilbert Elliot, from Henry Philing arms in consideration of which lips, praying a bounty from Parliament, in confideration of which was ready to disclose the ingredients of a composition, which he faid would effectually destroy all insects in biscuit and corn casks at sea, and which, of course, would be of the numost benefit to the na-

The flanding order being now dispensed with, the petition was aditted, read, and referred to a Committee.

The order of the day, for committing the Contractor's bill, being next read,

Mr George Onflow went into the confequences to which it led: To diffinguish between professions of men, and affert that one of them ought to be excluded from Parliament, he said, was what would affect not merchants only, for the principle led much farther; the officers of the army and navy might be excluded by it; the gentlemen of the long tobe might be excluded; and then, as it had happened once before, the Parliament might be known by the name of Parliamentum Indoctum. Resonners might go still farther, under the principles of the bill, and exclude all members returned by Dukes, Earls, and Lords.

N. B. The framer represents a place in which the Duke of Bolton has no fmall influence.

Mr Fofewarne also argued against the bill.

Lord North faid, it would be the ruin of the nation to give contracts invariably to the cheapelt bidder; as the mere adventurer would always offer lower terms than the merchant of character and fubflance ld, who had so many channels in which he could employ his mo-

Many other members spoke, but on a division there appeared, For committing the bill, Against it, 120

The next order of the day being for the fecond reading Crewe's bill for preventing revenue officers from voting at elections of members of Parliament, after a fhort debate, in which Mr Crewe, Mr Rolle, Mr T. Townshend, and Lord John Cavendith, spoke for it, and Lord Nugent. Mr Crefpigny, Mr Welbore Ellis, and Mr Percial against it, this bill also was thrown out by a majority of 46, there appearing,

Against it, Immediately after this division the House adjourned.

The province of South Carolins being now happily reflored to Government, and peace and tranquillity effablished, Lord Corawallis, as one of the firl falutary works to the new government, has appointed a Board of Commissioners to affectain the progressive depreciation of the Paper Currency, iffeed by the Usurpersia that Province and by the Continental

The Commissioners begin with January, February, and March 1777, when there was the first appearance of this depreciation; and from the average of these three months of the exchange of specie for Congress dollars among traders, they fix the depreciation, April 1. 1777, at 113 t-fourth per cent.

The Commissioners

mers go on, taking the average of every three months in 1777, and of every two months after; and by their tables it appears.

Jan. 1. 1778, the depreciation was 2874 per cent

Jan. I. 1779, the depreciation was a sea per cent.

Jan. I. 1779, 180 - 38334 per cent.

April 1. - 11800 per cent.

In May 3780 they could find no proof of any gold or filter being ought or fold, and here they close their Commission at the amazing depreciation of 11.00 per cent.

The Commissioners also proceed to ascertain the depreciation of produce during the uniquation; and the following will thew some of the most remarkable inflances of their enquiries; it is extracted from the tables, as published and figned by the Commissioners at Charlestown,

The Commissioners occasionally add tome fensible and judicions remarks and explanations, and at the end of their tables are observations on bills of exchange, the quantity of dollars current, and other matters that were any way connected with their commission; and, upon the whole, they appear to have had a very laborious task of it, and to have fipared no pains or abilities to complete it in a manner that does them great honour, both as good citizens and men of business.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, March 21.
EDINBURGH COMMITTEE, WEDNESDAY MARCH 21. Enfanuage Comstette, Wednesday' Maken 21.

The first evidence called this day on the part of the sitting member was Mr Alexader Dancas. He was asked by Mr Ilay Campbell, When he was made clerk? A. In 1763:—9. What was a quorum? A. Third teen of the Ordinary, and seventeen of the Extraordinary Council.

9. If he knew it necessary to have thirteen of the Ordinary Council.

10 in an Extraordinary Council? A. He always say thereten.—9. It he thought the said thirteen necessary? A. He heard so.—Other little questions were asked by Mr Campbell, which he could not inswer, but by giving his opinion on the words of the sitt, a t pactice of enables. Mr Wight asked, If he knew another instance, beside 1763, of the Council proceeding to business without the said thirteen? Now—Mr

Mr Wight asked, if he knew another inflance, before 1763, of the Council proceeding to business without the faid thirteen? Now—Mr North, Mr Pulkeney, Mr Fox, and others of the Committee, asked feveral other questions, all of which seemed to prove that there must be thirteen Ordinary Members.

"Mr James Stirling was next called. None of the questions asked at this gentleman need be repeated, being to the same purport as those put to Mr Duncan; but the answers were quite carious. They were in substance, That he had lately read the sets, which had conveyed to him an idea, on which he gave it as a master of opinion, two practices that seventeen might compose an Extraordinary Council, though there should not be thirteen of them of the Ordinary Council, though there should not be thirteen of them of the Ordinary Council, though there hear two hours, very ably, and with great ingenuity, combating every argument of the other side which he could make any appearance of opposing; and, sor want of a better cause, employed part of his time in restelling on Sir Laurence's conduct, which was not justifisable from an or resteding on Sir Laurence's conduct, which was not justifisable from any evidence that had appeared before the Committee;—however, he was allowed to proceed.

"When he had done, Mr Wight closed the whole, rather more by reflating facts, than returning the compliment of reflections on Mr Miller's mode of electioneering. He went much on the fame ground was before trode. He ipoke about an hour and a half.

"Mr Ilay Campbell was indulged by the Committee to fay a few words by way of explanation. After which all withdrew. The door being opened, the Chairman faid, the Committee were to meet to morrow at eleven o'clock, to give their final decision.

N. B. Mr Wight, in the beginning of his speech, made a distilled observation from what Mr Campbell faid, that Nir Miller never expected Sir Leurence to contest the subject to much; and he observed how clandeltinely Mr Miller went. In that Sir Laurence did not know, that he was candidate till a few days before the election. He could not work. that he was candidate till a few days before the election. He could not expect, that Sir Laurence should then forfake his friends, and make his opponent a prefent of the borough, after such proceedings, &c. used against him.

Extrast of a letter from London, March 3.

"This day, as soon as the Speaker of the Honse of Commons had taken the chair, Mr Montague, Chairman of the Select Committee, to whom the merits of the late election of the eity of Ediaburgh had been referred, reported to the House the following refolutions

1ft, That it is the opinion of the Committee, that Me Miller was not duly elected.

" 2dly, That Sir Laurence Dundas was duly elected. And,
" 3dly, That Sir Laurence Dundas ought to have been returned.
" The clerk was ordered to amend the return, by firking off the name of Mr Miller, and entering Sir Laurence Dundas.

"In confequence of which, a new writ will be iffued out for electing a member for Richmond in Yorkthires
" Mr Minchen then addressed the House in a pretty long speech, in the course of which he arraigned the conduct of the navy, and particularly the imperfect manner in which the accompts of it were mide up, and prefented to the Houfe; as also, that many sums had been expenand no vouchers produced for it. After which the Honor Gentleman moved, "That leave be given to bring in a bill for the bet"ter making up of the accompts of the royal navy," and which motion, Mr Minchin faid he should follow up with another, "fer an account to be taid before the House of the number of ployed in the royal dock yards."

"Sir George Young, in a thort speech, seconded the motion.

"Sir Churles Bunhary supported it in a very cloquent address, in which he took in a very large and extended review of the general political flate of Great Britain, dwelling principally on the necessity of keeping up a large and effectual navy, and supporting our marines, that they might act with the proper efficacy, in conjunction with the

" Mr Penton, one of the Lords of the Admiralty, defended the mode that had, time immemorial, been used in making up the accounts of the royal navy, but nevertheless had no objection to the Honourable Gentleman's motion, if, by adopting it, a better method could be introduced into office.

"Admiral Keppel imputed the chief cause of the present decline of the may to be want of workmen at the royal discks, or the backwirds ness in them to do their business. It was far from true, that the number of men at the feveral yards were complete, or any thing like it; and he could remember the time when even five and twenty thousand of them had been funt to help to man the fleet. If these men could have been kept to their work, the Honfe would easily priceite have much the building of ships would have been expedited. As to defertion amongst the scamen, the Honourable Admiral was forry to say that not less than forty thousand had deserted, though he did not precent to not less than forty thousand had deserted, though he did not pretend to fay who were to blume for it. A great deal had been shill respecting the steet that had sailed under Admiral Darby, and many withed he might meet the enemy. He did not doubt if that should be cale, but that the Admiral would do his sluty; but he did not know but it might prove a disastrous day, confidering the superior strength of the enemy Admiral Darby had gone out to face. The Honourable Admiral took notice of the ignorance of Ministry in not knowing whether the Brest sleet had sailed or not, and thought that an event they ought to be apprized of the moment it happened, for which pie-pose, he hoped, the first Lord at the Admiralty Board would take care to have a light vessel or two stationed off Brest. As to the French sheet, he trusted we had nothing to sva from it, on account of similar incidence. to have a light vessel or two stationed off Brest. As to the French seet, he trusted we had nothing to sear from it, on account of our having divided our Channel squadron, though he should rather wish the Brest seet would come up our Channel than go to join the enemy at Gibeat-

AREAS TO BE FEUED FOR BUILDING

AREAS TO BE FEUED FOR BUILDING
IN ST JAMES'S SQUARE, EDINBURGH.

THE fituation of this Square is dry and healthy; it is sheltered by the buildings of the New Town from the west wind, well known there to blow with uncommon violence from that quarter; it is out of the reach of the stench of the butchers shambles, so intolerable to the neighbourhood in the summer months; it has an extensive prospect over the adjacent fields, over the frith of Forth, and almost over the whole could of Fife, and is near agreeable walks and airings in the country; it is near to several churches, to the public markets, the Theatre-Royal, and the Assembly-Room now projected; it is close adjoining to that elegant and useful building the Register Office, in which the whole gentlemen of the law are conceased; it is nearer to the College, to the High School, to the Parliament-House, the Banks, the General Postoffice, and to the other public Offices of Customs, Excise, &c.
than any part of the New Town, (a very sew houses excepted,) and a short agreeable walk from the Royal Botanic Garden. Besides these local advantages, the seman of this Square will be free of the land-tax, ministers supend, sem on trade, impost on supers, and of the many other impositions, to which the inhabitants within the Royalty of the city of Edinburgh are subjest. There is plenty of good water in the ground, to be had at a small expence; and all the fecuers are to be taken bound to contribute their proportion to the public police of the square, viz.
Scavengers, lamps, &c.

ALSO to be FERLED, a number of AREAS for building on the Scavengers, lamps, &c.

ALSO to be FEUED, a number of AREAS for building, on the lower ground near St James's Square, which is also without the Royal-ty, and of consequence free of all tuxes and impolitions as above. These areas are remarkably well adapted for shops, warehouses, wine cellars, &c.

A plan of the Square, and of the freets where the other buildings are proposed, is to be seen in the hands of Walter Ferguson writer, the proprietor, at his boufe first florey Gavinloch's land, head of Luckenbooths, Edinburgh, who will inform of the terms of free the seen of the terms. booths, Edinburgh, who will inform of the terms of feuing, and every other particular relative to the premises.
